

This is a non-linear version of a saddle point.

Can we identify saddle-like behavior in linearized version of system?

Notice that the major vertical blue flow line does not coincide with the nullcline.